

CC-3636 "Wolffe"

Overview

Commander Wolffe

Known majorly as the commander of 104th Armored Battalion, he was born a first-generation clone on Kamino, raised for command of a battalion at the start of the Clone Wars. His hardened serious personality has led him and the 104th across multiple fronts. He is less open or emotional, unlike other Battalion Commanders, and his stoic personality and respect for his Jedi General Plo-Koon made him renowned leader.

After months leading the Wolfpack, he was awarded multiple medals along with a promotion to Marshal Commander. He was in charge of all of infantry command but still led from the front lines on places like Christophsis.

Soon later he was promoted to Grand Marshal, where he serves now.

Military Career

Educated in the Republic Clone Academy to be a officer, CC-3636 strived along with fella phase one officer cadets like CC-7567 "Rex" and CC-8826 "Neyo" with the importance of traits like strategy and coordination, After graduating and the Clone Wars beginning, he was appointed as Commander of the Wolfpack, serving diligently under Plo Koon.

He treats all troopers with ultimate respect, a trait that made Plo Koon admired, and now does not lead from the frontlines, but controls the command of unit movement and positioning on the galaxy.

Notable Engagements

The Siege of Carida

Along with the 91st Mobile Reconnaissance Corps and the 21st Nova Corps, Commander Wolffe along with the Wolfpack was tasked with the defense of Carida, with the CIS forces finally breaking the peace with an invasion of Carida. The fighting was brutal, with both pirate attacks along with droid sieges led to hundreds of clone deaths. One of the major factors of the fighting was the Sith apprentice Asajj Ventress. She took many lives on the battlefield and was a constant nuisance towards the Republic military.

Christophsis

In the crystal cities of Christophsis the war stretched longer than most other engagements to the time. The armies of Count Dooku proved to be an ample challenge for the armies of the Republic. The 104th along with multiple other major battalions were tasked with the spearhead invasion, where they faced challenges like rouge Jedi, spider droids, and the Count's wrath. Multiple Jedi were killed on Christophsis, including loved commanders Yoda and Plo-Koon. This loss was a major hit to the Wolfpack, and they repaid the debt tenfold with their armored support.
