History

Many Rogue Shinobi have rose to prominence, such as Char Houki. The first big issue steming from rogue shinobi was the LEE ARC incident that happened in 4 V.E. This would start a revolution throughout the shinobi world, posing those with differentiating ideals against eachother. Following the incident, shinobi deaths spiked, causing the Kages village activity to skyrocket.

During this time, many Chunin, and even Jonin died in combat. The loses were great, but after some time and the first generation of Kages assistance, it finally subsided to normal levels. Although attacks are still common, there will always be shinobi to defend it. One must be careful; till this day these rogue shinobi seek blood and money to carry out their goals. Occasionally spotted within the mainland, never doubt the capabilities of a rogue.
