The Military Police Life

The Military Police maintain order, deal with human issues, and have limited encounters with Titans. Their somewhat comfortable lifestyle, political ties, civil resolving, and occasional support for the Stationary Guard are part of their routine. Despite less exposure to external threats, they undergo combat training and may face internal threats in their jobs.

The Breaching and Raiding Squadron

The Military Police Brigade's Breaching and Raiding Squadron [BARS] is a cross-branch squadron based in the Military Police. Members of any branch may join it, however the high-ranks are restricted to MP only. This squad is tasked with being on the frontline of interior threats, being the first people to entre dangerous scenarios with the hope of giving the military an advantage. They are expected to be able to run into buildings that could potentially have criminals inside of them and possibly eliminate the threat before it gets out of hand. Members of this squadron may be scouted into their branches' respective Elite Squadrons depending on their performance.

The Investigation Squadron

MP’s Sub Elite Squadron; The Military Police Investigation Squad [MPIS] consists of highly skilled investigators. Tasked with solving serial cases, with access to classified information. Known for their skill in decoding, negotiating, and interrogating, they are the first to analyze crime scenes. Their goal is to ensure Humanity’s safety from internal threats and to take things down from behind the scenes.

The First Interior Squadron

The First Interior Squadron [FIS] is the Elite Squadron of the Military Police Brigade. They operate in high-profile and classified missions. Due to this, they will almost always find themself in the middle of combat. They work harder than the rest of the Brigade to keep up their status and skill.
