About

Abandoned since the Mandalorian Wars, Concordia stands as the main front for the terrorist group Death Watch. Using the vacant mine shafts left after the bombing as a home, after the civil wars leading to the formation of the Death Watch. They use it as a forward operating base for attacks on Mandalore.

Society and Culture

Led by Mand'alor Tor Vizsla, the Death Watch reigns supreme on the moon. They prioritize military strength and combat abilities above all else, as stated by Pre Vizsla: "Only the strongest shall rule"

Though the Death Watch is mostly centered around combat and conquest, they also respect loyalty among their high morals. Following the ancient Mandalorian texts, they have split from the pacifist Mandalorian ideals that still flow on Mandalore.

Government

As they are only a terrorist group, they don't have a specified leader or government system, but it is considered that Tor rules as supreme commander, and they will soon return Mandalore to true glory through conquest, as their ancestors intended.
