Society and Culture

There are no native species that live in the Keshtamor Asteroid Field. However, based on rumors from old travellers, it is believed that the Children of the Wailing Shade currently reside there. An old and feared cult, they seem to be the only ones who are able to safely traverse and survive in the Asteroid Field. Not much is known about the Children of the Wailing Shade, and in recent years, it seems they have gone to ground, hiding from the Republic and other galactic powers in their quiet region of space.

Recent Developments

Information from a leaked Separatist Navy transmission shows that a Separatist Fleet, under the direction of Admiral Ravor, a Super Tactical Droid, has been stationed on the outskirts of the Keshtamor Asteroid Field. Only time will tell if this is just preparation by the Confederacy to protect the hyperspace routes into Geonosis or if there is something more behind this sudden movement.
